Lecture Title: Exchange program of graduate students between Russia and Japan in the medical sciences

Abstract:

As a part of “Training Program for Russia-Japan Leaders of the Future”, we have developed an exchange program of graduate students with Russian Universities since 2017. In this symposium, I would like to show some of our recent activities mainly in 2020. Although we have experienced a very tough period due to the pandemic of COVID-19, we successfully performed several events such as on-line symposiums, on demand-style research lectures, a short-term visiting of a young researcher, and strengthening of research collaborations. As 2021 is the last year for our exchange program, we are now preparing for constructing The Japan-Russia Medical Education & Research Center as a new base for continuing and further developing our educational and research programs with Russian Universities.
