Application Guideline for the School Year 2024 Scholarship Programs for Privately-financed International Students

The process of evaluation and nomination by Niigata University for the School Year 2024 Scholarship Programs for Privately-financed International Students will be carried out according to this application guideline. The scholarship programs include MEXT scholarships for international students living in Japan, JASSO honors scholarship, and other private scholarship funds.

In this solicitation, we will determine the order of priority for recommending students for multiple scholarships. Applicants will not be notified of the ranking or selection results all at once. After the screening, if there are any applicable scholarships for the next academic year, the university will contact you in order to recommend them. Please respond when contacted by the University Email at a later date.

Applications are accepted only once a year (there will be no secondary application period). Students who wish to be nominated for SY2024 scholarship programs must apply during the set application period. Those who did not apply during this time will not be considered for nomination for the SY2024 scholarship programs.

Nominations will also be made for scholarship programs for international students for the school year 2025, including KDDI Foundation's, Heiwa Nakajima Foundation's, and SATOYO Foundation's. (These programs are expected to be announced from July to September 2024 and their application periods will end before the opening of the next year's application period set by Niigata University.)

1. Eligibility

A student who will be granted a "Student" visa for his/her stay in Japan after April 2024 and who also meets the following conditions (1) or (2), and (3) is eligible to apply. Condition (4) must also be met by applicants to whom these conditions apply.
